A note from our Spiritual Director

Greetings to the Saints of New Horizons Community:

Do you evangelize? Do you think you should? Do you believe that we as Christians are under orders to evangelize? Do you believe that God is sovereign in this world? Is that a conflict? Divine sovereignty is too vast a subject for this article, so the only concern now is His sovereignty in grace: His action in saving sinners.

To understand God's sovereignty in relation to our task in evangelism is the subject! I know you believe in the sovereignty of God. You demonstrate that when you pray! However, there is a suspicion by some leaders that a strong belief in sovereignty undermines our responsibility in evangelism. That it leads to complacency. Think about it! Could you strongly work at evangelizing individuals while in the back of your mind, you doubted the power and sovereignty of God? Would you work to bring someone to a god that could be replaced by human effort?

Far from interfering, your faith in His sovereignty is the only source of strength that gets us over the hump, so to speak. When we hit the hard spots in our ministry, our faith in God's power and might is what gives us courage to keep on going. We can jump the temporary hurdles of man and Satan, because we know our god is there! Has always been there! If anybody moves away from that thought, it is they who move! Not our God!

Remember when you came to the Lord. He sent a human being to do His work. That human came to you because of that person's faith in God's sovereignty. Far from being weakened by this faith, it is the source of our power and our effectiveness.

So keep on keeping on. You are not alone! Our sovereign God is with you. Thanks be to God.

Something To Think About

I recently had the opportunity to read a short writing from a young Texas Tech student, Casey Wilson. This young lady is nineteen years old and is on fire for our Lord and Savior. What she had to say made me think and with her permission I would like to share it with you all.

Life

So the other night, I was driving home from the library at about 1:30 AM and there weren't very many people on the street. As I was driving down 50th Street, I could see all of the traffic lights down the street. There were a few red and yellow blinking ones. I then began to think that life is like driving down the street with traffic lights. We try to rush through life to get to the next experience without taking the time to enjoy the part of life we are in, just like when the light turns yellow, most people speed up to get through the light. Those days when nothing seems to go right and you could just start the day over are the red lights. You never want to sit at a red light, especially if you are in a hurry. I think these times are given to us so that we will be thankful for the things that have gone right in our lives. Well that is all!

Be Blessed --- Casey

Are we rushing through each experience in our life, waiting for something better and not enjoying the God-given gift of today? We should be praising God for the yellow lights in our lives that allow us to slow down in a world that demands we travel in the fast lane!

De Colores,
Sabina Schilling
